LONDON, Nov. 25.—A flotilla of mine sweepers left the Firth of Forth this morning to clear the passage to Kiel for the British squadron, which it is understood will disarm and intern the remainder of the German navy.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF MRS. DONIE NORTHCUTT

Mrs. Donie Northcutt, wife of I. E. Northcutt, died November 23, 1918, of influenza. Her death took place at the home of John Northcutt, 628 W. 5th street, Ada. The body was interred at Rosedale cemetery, Brother Billie Nettles conducting the funeral service.

Deceased was born May 26, 1889, in the state of Arkansas. She was the mother of three children, a daughter, Lula, and two sons, Danyle and Harvey, all of whom survive.

Deceased was a lady of lovely disposition and strength of character, and during her residence in Pontotoc county she had made many friends. Her life was a blessing to her family and her passing away breaks up a happy home.

Farewell, dear husband and children all, a mother from you Christ has called. Her chair will be vacant and her sweet voice will be heard no more, but look to Christ. He doeth all things well. She will be at the Golden Gate waiting for your coming.
A FRIEND.

EDMOND DEFEATS ADA IN FOOTBALL GAME

The football game between the S. A. T. C. of East Central and that of Central normal play at Edmond Saturday resulted in a victory for Edmond by a score of 70 to 0. Ada suffered severe losses in the lineup when Stegall broke an ankle and Shaw fractured an arm.

Signifies Honorary Promotion.
Brevet is a French word, meaning commission or warrant. In military usage it gives an officer higher nominal rank than the one for which he receives pay. It is an honorary promotion. The first time it was used in the United States army was in 1812, when Capt. Zachary Taylor, who afterward became president, was made major by brevet for his brave defense of Fort Harrison against the Indians, near Terre Haute.

Systematic Effort Wins.
If we take our days and reduce them to the essentials we shall find that there are many real things to do, needful things to do, and we shall go about these tasks quietly and earnestly, not expressing our energies through a hundred trifles, but through true effort, properly directed, doing whatever our hands and hearts and minds find to do, nobly and well.

Compliment for Kathleen.
Kathleen told some stories to a little niece and nephew. At a family dinner party grandpa referred to these "same nursery tales," but got following the exact lines, when Margaret piped up: "No, no, grandpa, that is not the way Kathleen tells the stories and Kathleen is a good knower."

Don't Live Up to Appellation.
"The trouble with lots of 'regular fellows,'" observed the almost philosopher, "is that they are oftentimes irregular in their habits."

NEW TURN IN HUN AFFAIRS

SOCIALIST GOV'T. REACHES AN AGREEMENT WITH SOLDIERS AND WORKMEN.

(By the Associated Press)
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 25.—An agreement has been reached between German Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils and the government, according to an official Berlin announcement. The agreement provides all political power to be in the hands of the German Socialist Republic and Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils. Their aim is to defend and develop what has been accomplished by the revolution and suppress all counter-revolutionary activity. Pending the election, representatives of the Councils to the Executive Council of the government, the Berlin Executive Council is to exercise all functions. After providing for the appointment and dismissal of all the various legislative body members of the government to be made by the Central Executive Council, the agreement provides for a convention of deputies from Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils to be summoned as soon as possible.

New Move Significant.
LONDON, Nov. 25.—This morning's London newspapers display prominently German advice regarding an agreement between Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils and the government, which is regarded as a development of the greatest importance and as tantamount to the overthrow of the Ebert-Hase combination and adoption of any part of the present Russian system. The Daily Mail while pointing out the analogy to the developments in Russia, suggests the new step is part of a bluff aimed at persuading the allies that the old Germany is out of existence.

LIEBKNECHT STIRS TROUBLE

RADICAL GERMAN SOCIALIST WORKING ON RETURNING SOLDIERS. SUCCESS SMALL.

(By the Associated Press)
BERLIN, Nov. 25.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, radical socialist leader, is devoting himself primarily at present to an effort at influencing the men returning from the front. His henchmen comprise a small army of soldiers who are accused of packing political meetings sufficiently to pass measures embarrassing to the present government. Liebknecht's agitation deals principally with the proposed national assembly. Indications so far point to a failure of his efforts to win the soldiers over to "Bolshevism." The irony of the situation lies in the fact that freedom of press and speech, for which social democrats have been clamoring, is proving their chief source of menace.

VILLA BREAKS LOOSE AGAIN

BAND OF FOLLOWERS WRECK TRAIN AND SET FIRE TO TOWN SOUTH OF EL PASO.

(By the Associated Press)
EL PASO, Nov. 25.—Eighty Villa followers, said to be under command of General Holguin, attacked and set fire to Villa Ahumada, eighty miles south of Juarez, early Sunday morning, after wrecking a south bound freight train on the Mexican Central railway, according to reliable advices reaching here today.

Picture-Transmitting Set.
An apparatus for transmitting pictures electrically is among the latest scientific toys. It is described and illustrated in Popular Mechanics Magazine. The sending and receiving instruments are synchronized by a steel rod, although another system may be used for longer-range work. A photograph must first be reproduced on a copper plate, which is rolled over the cylindrical platen of the sending machine. A needle held against it travels from one end of the roll to the other, and the picture is reproduced on paper at the other end of the line.

Most Primitive Still.
Probably the most primitive still in use is that used by the Chinese in the distillation of camphor, which is said, however to be very effective. The leaves are placed in a wicker basket, which is fixed over an iron caldron containing water. On the top of the basket a basin of cold water is placed. The steam from the caldron passes through the leaves of the basket and carries over the camphor vapor, which is deposited in the form of camphor on the cool under surface of the basin.

Soap Economy.
New soap is about the most extravagant thing there is. If you possibly can, buy a dozen bars at a time. Cut it up at once into one and one-half inch thick blocks. Store these in a very dry, rather warm cupboard, piling them up after the fashion of a child building bricks, i. e., so that they practically do not touch each other. They will then dry and harden right through, and while the cleansing power of the soap will be in no way diminished it will last twice as long.

Accuracy Always Valued.
We all admire the thorough, painstaking person, for the reason that we know such persons place the right kind of an estimate on accuracy. True, they may not be singled out as having attained any speed records, but that fact gives us absolutely no concern. We believe in them because we know that they may in every situation be relied upon and we go our way happy in the knowledge that work turned out by such persons will fully "measure up."

Rhubarb Useful to Gardeners.
Rhubarb, apart from its usefulness, has values for its beauty. The giant Chinese variety, with its enormous leaves, is often employed by landscape gardeners to produce bold sub-tropical effects; nor do they always disdain the charms of the more modest plant itself, of which the tall, graceful spikes of white flowers and large leaves, deeply veined and stained, are as certainly handsome as the succulent stalks are palatable.

Up to the Standard.
People who go in for speed records are not as wise as they think they are; speed without accuracy is of no avail. True, time is at a premium in every line these days, and we should not under any circumstances waste a minute unnecessarily. But if we aren't sure about any phase of our work we must take sufficient time to go into it and not rely on chance to help us where we cannot possibly help ourselves.

showing much appreciation when he kicks on the way the machine is handled.

Some of the New York papers, sometimes posing as Democratic sheets, ascribe the recent defeat of the party to what they term the sectional spirit displayed in framing revenue laws, insisting that the Southern congressmen imposed too much of the load on the northern interests. As a matter of fact, the present congress was the only one that ever had the nerve to disregard the protests of the big men of the East and levy a tax that fell heaviest on the shoulders best able to carry the load. The northern idea has always been to let the south sweat pay the bills, regarding them largely as appendages to the nation for revenue only, considering the east as the real governing power. However, the east is no longer supreme and the south and west will henceforth demand a square deal in all legislation. Most of the money power being centered in the east, there is where the main part of the revenue should be raised. However, there is probably a grain of truth in the statement that the East elected Republican congressmen with a view of shifting the burden to the south and west for every Republican revenue measure has been framed for the benefit of that section.

The politicians who some weeks ago charged that the casualty lists indicate that the Southern troops were being favored should feel satisfied with the lists now coming in. Even while those shysters were howling about favoritism, these boys were in the thick of the fighting where Pershing sent his best soldiers and there won innumerable glory fighting for the Stars and Stripes. Certainly the fathers and grandfathers of these men, who won immortal fame as followers of Lee and Jackson have no reason to feel that the young men failed to maintain the reputation the Southerners won in previous wars. Whether the politicians are satisfied or not, the nation is and so are Pershing and Foch.

TEACHERS.

State Press of the Dallas News, commenting on the action of a school board in paying the teachers full salaries during the time the schools were suspended because of the influenza epidemic remarks thus:

"It seems to be a very just decision. Heaven knows the teachers didn't start the influenza, and heaven is equally aware that the teachers did not order the schools suspended. Therefore to have charged the last time to the teachers would have compelled thousands of them to do their Christmas shopping on credit and driven other thousands into matrimony—the last resort of a nerve-racked schoolmarm. To keep our teachers from running into debt at the stores and to fend them against the wiles of woosers, ought to be a main object of our more or less paternal government. Sometimes it looks like there ought to be a law forbidding any man to court a school teacher. For any masculine egotist to burst up a perfectly good school by marrying the teacher may sometime be made a felony. What is the interest of any one person, or any number of prospective persons, in comparison with the multiple interests of a score or more of actual, already-realized children? Any parent who has to spend half of his winter evening struggling with sixth-grade arithmetic or fifth-grade grammar in order to save his darling child from being nominated a numbskull at school knows what a debt he owes to the teacher, the dear, kind teacher who endures all, suffers all and keeps sweet for $75 a month. Were all the teachers to quit teaching and throw the children back upon the parents, there would be revolution in our homes and an uncontrollable crop of Bolsheviks in every community. Pap the teachers!"

Big Picture Here.

William Farnum, the great American actor, will be seen soon at the Liberty theatre in a stupendous screen production of Victor Hugo's immortal story, Les Miserables, made for William Fox under the direction of Frank Lloyd, who directed the making of "A Tale of Two Cities," and other big William Fox photoplays.

This picture is well termed "stupendous." It is the only real screening of the remarkable story of the conflict of man with humanity and humanity's half barbarous laws.

In the character of Jean Valjean, Mr. Farnum gives a portrayal that leaves one believing that he walked out of the book. The hard side of the man is shown in all his revengeful feeling against the world that caused him to serve nineteen years at hard labor for stealing a loaf of bread for his starving relatives. And the softer side, when he, having changed his name and become wealthy, is lending a helping hand to every one around him. Then, too, the wonderful spirit that makes him renounce the few joys he has had in life is shown in remarkable bits of acting by this master artist, William Farnum.

For this production William Fox had built in Fort Lee, N. J., a cross-section of streets in Paris. Nothing has been omitted to make the entire production realistic and true to Victor Hugo's conception.

Those who have read the book, or who know anything of Jean Valjean are in for a rare treat when this picture is shown at the Liberty theatre today and tomorrow.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Tells Aged People How to Get More Strength.

Here is another link of the chain of evidence to prove that our famous cod liver oil and iron tonic Vinol created strength for feeble old people.

Mr. Nelson H. Pease of the national Soldiers Home, Tennessee, says: "I am 74 years of age and was in a weak, debilitated condition, poor appetite and did not sleep well. Vinol gave me a good appetite, I sleep well, and it has built me up so I feel stronger and better in every way. I strongly recommend Vinol for such conditions as I believe it prolongs life for old people."—Gwin & Mays Co., "Druggists, and Druggists Everywhere."

NEW LIGHT ON RUN PLOTS IN MEXICO

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The German plot to incite Mexico and Japan to war against the United States originated with Herr Von Chemnitz who bore the title of Legation Counselor and was employed in a subordinate capacity in the German Foreign office. It is now asserted. This is disclosed by Professor Bonn, Rector of the Commercial Academy at Munich, Bavaria, according to the Munich Neueste Nachrichten.

"Von Chemnitz," says the Munich newspaper, "imagined himself an authority on Latin-American affairs and suggested the scheme to Dr. Albert Zimmerman," then German Secretary for Foreign Affairs. Zimmerman discussed it with other Foreign office officials but they thought it unfeasible.

"Zimmerman kept the matter in mind. Presently, Von Chemnitz came and told him that in the next few days an especially reliable messenger would leave for Mexico, to whom the message could safely be entrusted, and that it was a matter of now or never."

Zimmerman allowed himself to be over-persuaded and so the fatal step was taken."

Dr. Albert Zimmerman on January 19, 1917, directed the German Minister, Von Eckhardt, at Mexico City, to propose an alliance between Germany, Mexico and Japan to take effect as soon as it was certain there would be war between the United States and Germany. The German Minister was directed to urge President Carranza of Mexico to ask Japan's adherence to this scheme. Zimmerman proposed that Mexico should "reconquer the lost territory of New Mexico, Texas and Arizona."

The German plot was made public by the United States government in February, 1917. Its disclosure was one of the startling incidents which preceded America's entrance into the war.

Professor Moritz J. Bonn, director of the Commercial High school at Munich was lecturing in the United States on German history and defined German war aims in addresses delivered here before the United States became a belligerent.

Prayer. Not in many decades have the people of America had so much cause to be thankful. A year ago our country was under the menace of the Hun. The Prussians were then in their headlong career of destruction both on land and sea. The homes of America were sending their young men to the battlefield, some never to return. Few then hoped for victory as soon as now.

The four and one-half years of horror is at an end. Soon we will welcome back the young men of our nation. We have reason to believe that the nations of the earth are on the threshold of an era of permanent peace. We should give thanks to God for the leadership of our President, Woodrow Wilson, during these times; for peace with victory; for a greater and more united nation.

I hereby ask the citizens of this state to gather in the churches and meeting places in their respective communities on Thursday, November 28, 1918, to offer up thanks for the great and manifold blessings of the year.

The New Engine

We have received our new Engine, ordered last January, and for several weeks will be tearing out the old and putting in the new. While doing this work we will have only one engine to depend on for service, so there will probably be some interruptions. We trust they will be few and of short duration and that our customers will bear with us patiently. For two or three Sundays, beginning with the 10th, the plant will be shut down from two to six hours while making changes in steam lines necessary to make connections for the new engine.

THEIR BELIEF

By JACK WALTON.

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

The man coming suddenly around an edge of cliff saw the girl and hesitated. He recognized her as one of the guests of the Lakeside hotel. She had been seated at a table in the dining room when he arrived the night before. Someone mumbled an introduction in passing; he had been unable to catch the girl's name, but he remembered the unusual blue of her eyes.

Glancing up now from her book, she settled his indecision with an impulsive welcoming smile, then as though annoyed by her own graciousness, she bent again over the book. Also following some impulse, Richard Graves spoke:

"You have chosen a delightful spot for your reading," he said, "so sequestered that I thought myself alone on the beach. The view from here is beautiful."

"Yes," the girl said, again for a moment her transforming smile appeared.

"My home," the man began, "is over there in the city, I— But she put forth a protesting hand. 'Let us waive personal history,' said the girl, 'what does it all matter? We come from some place, we go on presently, somewhere. This hour alone is ours. It's a glorious day—the lake is blue, the sun shines—it is good to be alive.'"

The man smiled back into the piquant, glowing face. It was a lovely face, he thought, as full of changing surprises as the girl's own pretty moods. Reaching out he touched the book with a tentative finger.

"What do you read?"

She frowned. "Nonsense," she answered curtly.

"And ideals," added the man, "we all have our ideals. They should be carefully formed early in life for our future plan of companionship."

The girl leaned forward eagerly. "Just what I have always thought. Now, in my own case," she paused abruptly, a flush suffused her face. "My subject carries me away," she excused herself to Graves.

"The subject interests me," he replied, "your views so coincide with mine. Please go on. In your own way."

"The man I intend one day to marry," she said, answers in every way my ideal, both as to physical appearance, and mental endowment. Robert is tall—the broad-shouldered man who was not tall, nodded—"and he is patient under all my perversities. It has taken some time to arrive thoughtfully at my decision that our marriage will be a wise and enduring relationship."

"Imagine!" the blue eyes danced, "meeting Robert and loving him at first sight!"

Graves smiled absently. "The woman who has for some time been my close friend and confidant," he said, "is stopping at the hotel with her mother. She is my ideal of all those qualities necessary for a man's true helpmate. What could I learn of Elizabeth in a first meeting?"

The girl opened her book. "And thereafter," she read mockingly, "nothing in the world mattered to these two, save each other."

Across the waters of the lake came a low thrilling call, the man arose slowly. "It's Elizabeth," he said, "she has the boat out and wants me to join her. That's our signal."

The girl glanced at her wrist watch. "Five o'clock," she exclaimed, "and I promised to meet Robert at four." Comfortably she settled back in the boat. "Too late now," she said.

Graves lingered, as the thrill still ran down the lake. "I may not have another chance to talk to you like this," his tone was regretful.

Fainter and far away sounded the call. With a sigh he sank back into his corner on the sands. Later, when he passed the table where the girl sat in the hotel dining room, their eyes met with a sense of pleasant understanding.

At Richard Graves' side was the woman of his ideal. The girl studied this woman of noble qualities with a certain wistfulness; she was tall, her eyes and hair were black. The girl was very small, now, beneath the shaded light of the boat, she seemed almost golden.

When Graves came back to speak to her, she turned coldly from him, and his attitude, unlike that of the chosen Robert, proved him to be far from "patient with perversities."

That night when all were sleeping in their quiet rooms, winding like a serpent up the flimsy walls of the hotel, stole a tongue of flame, which burst triumphantly ablaze at last.

The girl wakening in her high room, desperately moved through the choking smoke to the one narrow window, only to find it a hopeless means of exit.

Desperately she caught her knees about her shoulders and moved again to the window, then the door burst open. In the glaring light she saw for a moment the stranger of the beach. Years ago it seemed since their profane talk of love and marriage. Swiftness from her terrified senses fell all fear.

"He" was here, "he," the one who would save her life, or give his own in saving; and the man's eyes looked back to her, shining with joy.

"I love you," he gasped. "I was afraid I might be too late. Oh, my dearest, come quickly."

As naturally as a child seeks its mother, the girl ran into his arms. "You will come bravely," Graves admonished. "I will go through anything with you," said the girl, and she smiled.

We Thank You.

Chickasha, Ok., Nov. 22, 1918. Just to let you know that we surely do appreciate the beautiful gifts, and good will of our friends in the church, and out of it, at the time of our leaving for Chickasha. While we are a little behind with these words, some of you will remember we were a little behind time the day we left Ada—but the Santa Fe waited for "The Rev. C. B. James" just the same.

Fond memory will ever keep before us our days of "labor together" in Ada, which were days of rejoicing mingled now and then with sorrow. But had all been sunshine and no clouds we would not love as we do, nor would we appreciate each other as we should.

The war has taught us our utter dependence each upon the other, and that we must stand together, or fall alone. But the war is over, and how gladly we sing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

Again we thank you and here is our "love and best wishes" to all. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. James, 921 South Eighth.

THANKSGIVING WAR STAMP CAMPAIGN

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Nov. 25.—(Special)—The selection of Thanksgiving season as the proper time in which Oklahomans may show their devotion to their government at Washington and to the Boys in France, is meeting with great favor with the untiring workers in the War Savings campaign—the only war workers who have continued giving their time and energy throughout the entire year.

With the idea in mind that we have so much more for which to be thankful this Thanksgiving than during this season last year—it is likely that the request of the government, that every state finish up its quota early in December, will meet with the characteristic Oklahoma response.

The fact that there is to be no cessation of war work activities for a long time, has made every one desirous of "cleaning up" their present obligations to the government, and this is particularly true of the War Savings Stamps where pledges have been made up to the end of the year but which may be taken up at any time previous to that.

A nine-days' drive which starts on Thanksgiving Day will give all an opportunity to redeem their pledges immediately, and to add to them as many Stamps as they feel are in proportion to their joy at the end of the war and the fact that Our Boys will soon be returning from the front.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF MRS. DONIE NORTHCUTT
Mrs. Donie Northcutt, wife of I. E. Northcutt, died November 23, 1918, of influenza. Her death took place at the home of John Northcutt, 623 W. 5th street, Ada. The body was interred at Rosedale cemetery. Brother Billie Nettles conducting the funeral service.

Deceased was born May 26, 1889, in the state of Arkansas. She was the mother of three children, a daughter, Lula, and two sons, Danyle and Harvey, all of whom survive.

Deceased was a lady of lovable disposition and strength of character, and during her residence in Pontotoc county she had made many friends. Her life was a blessing to her family and her passing away breaks up a happy home.

Farewell, dear husband and children all, a mother from you Christ has called. Her chair will be vacant and her sweet voice will be heard no more, but look to Christ. He doeth all things well. She will be at the Golden Gate waiting for your coming.

Signifies Honorary Promotion.
Brevet is a French word, meaning commission or warrant. In military usage it gives an officer higher nominal rank than the one for which he receives pay. It is an honorary promotion. The first time it was used in the United States army was in 1812, when Capt. Zachary Taylor, who afterward became president, was made major by brevet for his brave defense of Fort Harrison against the Indians, near Terre Haute.

Systematic Effort Wins.
If we take our days and reduce them to the essentials we shall find that there are many real things to do, useful things to do, and we shall go about these tasks quietly and earnestly, not expressing our energies through a hundred trifles, but through true effort, properly directed, doing whatever our hands and hearts and minds find to do, nobly and well.

Compliment for Kathleen.

NEW TURN IN HUN AFFAIRS

SOCIALIST GOV'T REACHES AN AGREEMENT WITH SOLDIERS AND WORKMEN.

(By the Associated Press)
COPENHAGEN, Nov. 25.—An agreement has been reached between German Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils and the government, according to an official Berlin announcement. The agreement provides all political power to be in the hands of the German Socialist Republic and Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils. Their aim is to defend and develop what has been accomplished by the revolution and suppress all counter-revolutionary activity. Pending the election, representatives of the Councils to the Executive Council of the government, the Berlin Executive Council is to exercise all functions. After providing for the appointment and dismissal of all the various legislative body members of the government to be made by the Central Executive Council, the agreement provides for a convention of deputies from Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils to be summoned as soon as possible.

New Move Significant.
LONDON, Nov. 25.—This morning's London newspapers display prominently German advices regarding an agreement between Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils and the government, which is regarded as a development of the greatest importance and as tantamount to the overthrow of the Ebert-Hase combination and adoption of any part of the present Russian system. The Daily Mail while pointing out the analogy to the developments in Russia, suggests the new step is part of a bluff aimed at persuading the allies that the old Germany is out of existence.

LIEBKNECHT STIRS TROUBLE

RADICAL GERMAN SOCIALIST WORKING ON RETURNING SOLDIERS. SUCCESS SMALL.

(By the Associated Press)
BERLIN, Nov. 25.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, radical socialist leader, is devoting himself primarily at present to an effort at influencing the men returning from the front. His henchmen comprise a small army of soldiers who are accused of packing political meetings sufficiently to pass measures embarrassing to the present government. Liebknecht's agitation deals principally with the proposed national assembly. Indications so far point to a failure of his efforts to win the soldiers over to "Bolshevism." The irony of the situation lies in the fact that freedom of press and speech, for which social democrats have been clamoring, is proving their chief source of menace.

VILLA BREAKS LOOSE AGAIN

BAND OF FOLLOWERS WRECK TRAIN AND SET FIRE TO TOWN SOUTH OF EL PASO.

(By the Associated Press)
EL PASO, Nov. 25.—Eighty Villa followers, said to be under command of General Holguin, attacked and set fire to Villa Ahumada, eighty miles south of Juarez, early Sunday morning, after wrecking a south-bound freight train on the Mexican Central railway, according to reliable advices reaching here today.

Picture-Transmitting Set.
An apparatus for transmitting pictures electrically is among the latest scientific toys. It is described and illustrated in Popular Mechanics Magazine. The sending and receiving instruments are synchronized by a steel rod, although another system may be used for longer-range work. A photograph must first be reproduced on a copper plate, which is rolled over the cylindrical platen of the sending machine. A needle held against it travels from one end of the roll to the other, and the picture is reproduced on paper at the other end of the line.

Most Primitive Still.
Probably the most primitive still in use is that used by the Chinese in the distillation of camphor, which is said, however, to be very effective. The leaves are placed in a wicker basket, which is fixed over an iron caldron containing water. On the top of the basket a basin of cold water is placed. The steam from the caldron passes through the leaves of the basket and carries over the camphor vapor, which is deposited in the form of camphor on the cool under surface of the basin.

Soap Economy.
New soap is about the most extravagant thing there is. If you possibly can, buy a dozen bars at a time. Cut it up at once into one and one-half inch thick blocks. Store these in a very dry, rather warm cupboard, piling them up after the fashion of a child building bricks, i. e., so that they practically do not touch each other. They will then dry and harden right through, and while the cleansing power of the soap will be in no way diminished it will last twice as long.

Accuracy Always Valued.
We all admire the thorough, painstaking person, for the reason that we know such persons place the right kind of an estimate on accuracy. True, they may not be singled out as having attained any speed records, but that fact gives us absolutely no concern. We believe in them because we know that they may in every situation be relied upon and we go our way happy in the knowledge that work turned out by such persons will fully "measure up."

Rhubarb Useful to Gardeners.
Rhubarb, apart from its usefulness, has values for its beauty. The giant Chinese variety, with its enormous leaves, is often employed by landscape gardeners to produce bold sub-tropical effects; nor do they always disdain the charms of the more modest plant itself, of which the tall, graceful spikes of white flowers and large leaves, deeply veined and stalked, are as certainly handsome as the succulent stalks are palatable.

Up to the Standard.
People who go in for speed records are not as wise as they think they are; speed without accuracy is of no avail. True, time is at a premium in every line these days, and we should not under any circumstances waste a minute unnecessarily. But if we aren't sure about any phase of our work we must take sufficient time to go into it and not rely on chance to help us where we cannot possibly help ourselves.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

Victor Hugo's great classic, Les Miserables, will be presented this evening and tomorrow. A more famous story was never written. It has been most skillfully dramatized and William Farnum appears in the leading role.

AMERICAN.
Ruth Roland is featured in the second episode of the serial drama, Hands Up! The official review, released by the government, is an important feature of the program. Also a side splitter comedy.

Occasionally one hears some fellow who has never contributed a dime to the support of the Chamber of Commerce criticising its actions in its efforts to advance the city along the road to greater prosperity. Wouldn't it be more consistent to first become paying members and then after learning the real facts in the case offer criticism or profitable suggestions? The man who is paying his fare in a taxi is entitled to cuss the driver, but the fellow who is carried gratis is certainly not

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping, is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

showing much appreciation when he kicks on the way the machine is handled.

Some of the New York papers, sometimes posing as Democratic sheets, ascribe the recent defeat of the party to what they term the sectional spirit displayed in framing revenue laws, insisting that the Southern congressmen imposed too much of the load on the northern interests. As a matter of fact, the present congress was the only one that ever had the nerve to disregard the protests of the big men of the East and levy a tax that fell heaviest on the shoulders best able to carry the load. The northern idea has always been to let the south sweat pay the bills, regarding them largely as appendages to the nation for revenue only, considering the east as the real governing power. However, the east is no longer supreme and the south and west will henceforth demand a square deal in all legislation. Most of the money power being centered in the east, there is where the main part of the revenue should be raised. However, there is probably a grain of truth in the statement that the East elected Republican congressmen with a view of shifting the burden to the south and west for every Republican revenue measure has been framed for the benefit of that section.

The politicians who some weeks ago charged that the casualty lists indicate that the Southern troops were being favored should feel satisfied with the lists now coming in. Even while those shysters were howling about favoritism, these boys were in the thick of the fighting where Pershing sent his best soldiers and there won imperishable glory fighting for the Stars and Stripes. Certainly the fathers and grandfathers of these men, who won immortal fame as followers of Lee and Jackson have no reason to feel that the young men failed to maintain the reputation the Southerners won in previous wars. Whether the politicians are satisfied or not, the nation is and so are Pershing and Foch.

TEACHERS.

State Press of the Dallas News, commenting on the action of a school board in paying the teachers full salaries during the time the schools were suspended because of the influenza epidemic remarks thus:

"It seems to be a very just decision. Heaven knows the teachers didn't start the influenza, and heaven is equally aware that the teachers did not order the schools suspended. Therefore to have charged the lost time to the teachers would have compelled thousands of them to do their Christmas shopping on credit and driven other thousands into matrimony—the last resort of a nerve-racked schoolmarm. To keep our teachers from running into debt at the stores and to fend them against the wiles of wooers, ought to be a main object of our more or less paternal government. Sometimes it looks like there ought to be a law forbidding any man to court a school teacher. For any masculine egotist to burst up a perfectly good school by marrying the teacher may sometime be made a felony. What is the interest of any one person, or any number of prospective persons, in comparison with the multiple interests of a score or more of actual, already-realized children? Any parent who has to spend half of his winter evening struggling with sixth-grade arithmetic or fifth-grade grammar in order to save his darling child from being nominated a numbskull at school knows what a debt he owes to the teacher, the dear, kind teacher who endures all, suffers all and keeps sweet for $75 a month. Were all the teachers to quit teaching and throw the children back upon the parents, there would be revolution in our homes and an uncontrollable crop of Bolsheviks in every community. Pap the teachers!"

Big Picture Here.

William Farnum, the great American actor, will be seen soon at the Liberty theatre in a stupendous screen production of Victor Hugo's immortal story, Les Misérables, made for William Fox under the direction of Frank Lloyd, who directed the making of "A Tale of Two Cities," and other big William Fox photoplays.

This picture is well termed "stupendous." It is the only real screening of the remarkable story of the conflict of man with humanity and humanity's half barbarous laws.

In the character of Jean Valjean, Mr. Farnum gives a portrayal that leaves one believing that he walked out of the book. The hard side of the man is shown in all his revengeful feeling against the world that caused him to serve nineteen years at hard labor for stealing a loaf of bread for his starving relatives. And the softer side, when he, having changed his name and become wealthy, is lending a helping hand to every one around him. Then, too, the wonderful spirit that makes him renounce the few joys he has had in life is shown in remarkable bits of acting by this master artist, William Farnum.

For this production William Fox had built in Fort Lee, N. J., a cross-section of streets in Paris. Nothing has been omitted to make the entire production realistic and true to Victor Hugo's conception.

Those who have read the book, or who know anything of Jean Valjean are in for a rare treat when this picture is shown at the Liberty theatre today and tomorrow.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Tells Aged People How to Get More Strength.

Here is another link of the chain of evidence to prove that our famous cod liver oil and iron tonic Vinol created strength for feeble old people.

Mr. Nelson H. Pease of the national Soldiers Home, Tennessee, says: "I am 74 years of age and was in a weak, debilitated condition, poor appetite and did not sleep well. Vinol gave me a good appetite, I sleep well, and it has built me up so I feel stronger and better in every way. I strongly recommend Vinol for such conditions as I believe it prolongs life for old people."—Gwin & Mays Co., Druggists, and Druggists Everywhere.

NEW LIGHT ON HUN PLOTS IN MEXICO

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 17.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The German plot to incite Mexico and Japan to war against the United States originated with Herr Von Chemnitz who bore the title of Legation Counselor and was employed in a subordinate capacity in the German Foreign office, it is now asserted. This is disclosed by Professor Bonn, Rector of the Commercial Academy at Munich, Bavaria, according to the Munich Neueste Nachrichten.

"Von Chemnitz," says the Munich newspaper, "imagined himself an authority on Latin-American affairs and suggested the scheme to Dr. Albert Zimmerman," then German Secretary for Foreign Affairs. Zimmerman discussed it with other Foreign office officials but they thought it unfeasible.

"Zimmerman kept the matter in mind. Presently, Von Chemnitz came and told him that in the next few days an especially reliable messenger would leave for Mexico, to whom the message could safely be entrusted, and that it was a matter of now or never."

Zimmerman allowed himself to be over-persuaded and so the fatal step was taken.

Dr. Albert Zimmerman on January 19, 1917, directed the German Minister, Von Eckhardt, at Mexico City, to propose an alliance between Germany, Mexico and Japan to take effect as soon as it was certain there would be war between the United States and Germany. The German Minister was directed to urge President Carranza of Mexico to ask Japan's adherence to this scheme. Zimmerman proposed that Mexico should "reconquer the lost territory of New Mexico, Texas and Arizona."

The German plot was made public by the United States government in February, 1917. Its disclosure was one of the startling incidents which preceded America's entrance into the war.

Professor Moritz J. Bonn, director of the Commercial High school at Munich was lecturing in the United States on German history and defined German war aims in addresses delivered here before the United States became a belligerent.

Prayer. Not in many decades have the people of America had so much cause to be thankful. A year ago our country was under the menace of the Hun. The Prussians were then in their headlong career of destruction both on land and sea. The homes of America were sending their young men to the battlefield, some never to return. Few then hoped for victory as soon as now.

The four and one-half years of horror is at an end. Soon we will welcome back the young men of our nation. We have reason to believe that the nations of the earth are on the threshold of an era of permanent peace. We should give thanks to God for the leadership of our President, Woodrow Wilson, during these times; for peace with victory; for a greater and more united nation.

I hereby ask the citizens of this state to gather in the churches and meeting places in their respective communities on Thursday, November 28, 1918, to offer up thanks for the great and manifold blessings of the year.

In Testimony Whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of Oklahoma at Oklahoma City, this 18th day of November, 1918.

What I Would Do With the Kaiser.
I would make a platform 500 ft. long and 8 ft. wide, and then would drive 60 penny nails in it 3 in. apart each way, and then gently let the kaiser down on one end of the platform. Then I would heat one end of a cable wire red hot, and tie it around his neck.

I'd hitch a donkey to the other end and drag him slowly across, then turn him over and drag him back.

I would then take him to the rock crusher, run him through it, and then take him to the oil mill, and take through the process of cotton seed meal. I'd put him in the cake press and turn all the power on him. I'd go to the glass factory and have a box made just to fit the kaiser cake. Then I would put him in it and pour the oil over him and start him back to Berlin, and when I got there I would place him on top of the capitol, and these words I would place over him: "I left here a German king and returned a Kaiser Cake."

THEIR BELIEF

By JACK WALTON.

The man coming suddenly around an edge of cliff saw the girl and hesitated. He recognized her as one of the guests of the Lakeside hotel. She had been seated at a table in the dining room when he arrived the night before. Someone mumbled an introduction in passing; he had been unable to catch the girl's name, but he remembered the unusual blue of her eyes.

Glancing up now from her book, she settled his indecision with an impulsive welcoming smile, then as though annoyed by her own graciousness, she bent again over the book. Also following some impulse, Richard Graves spoke:

"You have chosen a delightful spot for your reading," he said, "so sequestered that I thought myself alone on the beach. The view from here is beautiful."

"Yes," the girl said, again for a moment her transforming smile appeared.

"My home," the man began, "is over there in the city. I— But she put forth a protesting hand. "Let us have personal history," said the girl, "what does it all matter? We come from some place, we go on presently, somewhere. This hour alone is ours. It's a glorious day—the lake is blue, the sun shines—it is good to be alive."

The man smiled back into the piquant, glowing face. It was a lovely face, he thought, as full of changing surprises as the girl's own pretty moods. Reaching out he touched the book with a tentative finger.

"What do you read?"

She frowned. "Nonsense," she answered curtly.

"And ideals," added the man, "we all have our ideals. They should be carefully formed early in life for our future plan of companionship."

The girl leaned forward eagerly. "Just what I have always thought. Now, in my own case." She paused abruptly, a flush suffused her face. "My subject carries me away," she excused herself to Graves.

"The subject interests me," he replied, "your views so coincide with mine. Please go on. In your own case?"

"The man I intend one day to marry," she said, answers in every way my ideal, both as to physical appearance, and mental endowment. Robert is tall—the broad-shouldered man who was not tall, nodded—"and he is patient under all my perversities. It has taken some time to arrive thoughtfully at my decision that our marriage will be a wise and enduring relationship. Imagine! the blue eyes danced, meeting Robert and loving him at first sight!"

Graves smiled absently. "The woman who has for sometime been my close friend and confidant," he said, "is stopping at the hotel with her mother. She is my ideal of all those qualities necessary for a man's true helpmate. What could I learn of Elizabeth in a first meeting?"

The girl opened her book. "And thereafter," she read mockingly, "nothing in the world mattered to these two, save each other."

Across the waters of the lake came a low trilling call, the man arose slowly. "It's Elizabeth," he said, "she has the boat out and wants me to join her. That's our signal."

The girl glanced at her wrist watch. "Five o'clock," she exclaimed, "and I promised to meet Robert at four." Comfortably she settled back in the boat. "Too late now," she said.

Graves lingered, as the trill still ran down the lake. "I may not have another chance to talk to you like this," his tone was regretful.

Fainter and far away sounded the call. With a sigh he sank back into his corner on the sands. Later, when he passed the table where the girl sat in the hotel dining room, their eyes met with a sense of pleasant understanding.

At Richard Graves' side was the woman of his ideal. The girl studied this woman of noble qualities with a certain wistfulness; she was tall, her eyes and hair were black. The girl was very small, now, beneath the shaded light her hair gleamed almost golden.

When Graves came back to speak to her she turned coldly from him, and his attitude, unlike that of the chosen Robert, proved him to be far from "patient with perversities."

That night when all were sleeping in their quiet rooms, winding like a serpent up the flimsy walls of the hotel, stole a tongue of flame, which burst triumphantly ablaze at last.

The girl awakening in her high room, desperately moved through the choking smoke to the one narrow window, only to find it a hopeless means of exit.

Desperately she caught her kimono about her shoulders and moved again to the window, then the door burst open. In the glaring light she saw for a moment the stranger of the beach. Years ago it seemed since their profitless talk of love and marriage. Swiftly from her terrified senses fell all fear.

"He" was here, "he," the one who would save her life, or give his own in saving; and the man's eyes looked back to hers, shining with joy.

"I love you," he gasped. "I was afraid I might be too late. Oh, my dearest, come quickly!"

As naturally as a child seeks its mother, the girl ran into his arms. "You will come bravely," Graves admonished. "I will go through anything with you," said the girl, and she smiled.

Chickasha, Ok., Nov. 22, 1918. Just to let you know that we surely do appreciate the beautiful gifts, and good will of our friends in the church, and out of it, at the time of our leaving for Chickasha. While we are a little behind with these words, some of you will remember we were a little behind time the day we left Ada—but the Santa Fe waited for "The Rev. C. D. James" just the same.

Fond memory will ever keep before us our days of "labor together" in Ada, which were days of rejoicing mingled now and then with sorrow. But had all been sunshine and no clouds we would not love as we do, nor would we appreciate each other as we should.

The war has taught us our utter dependence each upon the other, and that we must stand together, or fall alone. But the war is over, and how gladly we sing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

Again we thank you and here is our "love and best wishes" to all. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. James, 921 South Eighth.

THANKSGIVING WAR STAMP CAMPAIGN

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Nov. 25—(Special)—The selection of Thanksgiving season as the proper time in which Oklahoma may show their devotion to their government at Washington and to the Boys in France, is meeting with great favor with the untiring workers in the War Savings campaign—the only war workers who have continued giving their time and energy throughout the entire year.

With the idea in mind that we have so much more for which to be thankful this Thanksgiving than during this season last year—it is likely that the request of the government, that every state finish up its quota early in December, will meet with the characteristic Oklahoma response.

The fact that there is to be no cessation of war work activities for a long time, has made every one desirous of "cleaning up" their present obligations to the government, and this is particularly true of the War Savings Stamps where pledges have been made up to the end of the year but which may be taken up at any time previous to that.

A nine-days' drive which starts on Thanksgiving Day will give all an opportunity to redeem their pledges immediately, and to add to them as many Stamps as they feel are in proportion to their joy at the end of the war and the fact that Our Boys will soon be returning from the front.

Liberty Photoplay.

More than twenty years was spent by Victor Hugo in writing the greatest of his masterpieces, Les Miserables, but the greatest picturization ever made required only three months. It was made by William Fox with William Farnum playing the role of Jean Valjean. Les Miserables the picture, like the book, is undoubtedly the picture of the year. It will be shown at Liberty theatre today and tomorrow.

To Retain Friends.
To retain friends of the right sort means that one must prove a friend of similar caliber. But on the other hand, if a girl or woman is influenced only by display (which at best is an empty, shallow affair) she cannot hope to hold the sincere regard of persons who in truth are worth while. The really level-headed girl will cling fast to the honest friends of other less palmy days—perhaps to the friends who make no display but who are sterling through and through.—Exchange.

Elder Ducks.
Elder ducks are numerous everywhere in Norway. Being the producers of the valuable eiderdown, a staple article of trade in Norway, they are rigorously protected by law, and are in consequence so tame as in many places to approximate a domestic fowl. The birds are regarded with far from friendly eyes by the fishermen, by reason of the damage they work among the spawning beds of the fish. Lobsters in particular suffer severely from their devastations.

British Urged to Keep Goats.
"Goat-ketting" is coming right along as a national sport in England, says a London dispatch. Everyone who knows anything about Nanaimo is writing to the papers urging everyone to get one goat at least and more if possible and keep them. The right kind of goat yields about two quarts of milk daily and the gentlemen of the species—the boys with the Farmer Brown whiskers—are said to produce first-class mutton.

Famous Blarney Castle.
The ruins of old Blarney castle are a few miles outside of Cork, surrounded by pleasant Irish fields and gorgeous hawthorne hedges. The huge square tower stands as firm and true now as in the days when old Cormac McCarthy ruled over the land of Munster. The old chieftain built his castle to withstand English runs and English diplomacy and Blarney castle has kept the trust.

World's Coal Areas.
A good authority gives the coal area of the world in square miles as follows: United States, 122,000; British America, 18,000; Great Britain, 12,000; Spain, 4,000; France, 2,000; Germany, 1,800; Belgium, 518; rest of Europe, 200,000; China, 2,000; Japan, 5,000. Coal is found in commercial quantities in 27 of the states and territories of the United States and Alaska.

Bully for Bill.
There was a city lady visiting some relatives in the country and as she was walking down the lane she saw some calves. Thinking to display her knowledge, she remarked: "Oh what pretty little cowlets." Bill, the farm boy, came up about that time, heard her remarks, and said: "Excuse me, ma'am, but them's bullocks."—Boys' Life.

Preserving Frescoes.
A novel method of preserving frescoes, recently discovered by a Japanese, consists in coating them with thin glass, which is made to adhere through the agency of specially prepared chemicals. The new method is said to make the frescoes proof against the injurious action of the atmosphere.

A Morning Breeze.
The Jokesmith's Wife (2 a. m.)—"Aw, c'm on to bed, you! Want to sit up all night knocking the weather and us poor girls?" Well, what though the temperature was 100 degrees in the dark, the little remark caused a temporary coolness.

All Is Not Lost.
Boys no longer have the opportunity to learn their lessons by the light of a pine knot. But opportunities to master draw poker in a quiet lay loft, and by the light of a smudged lantern still are available in many rural communities.—Topeka Capital.

Hughes—Yuzovka.
The first successful iron and steel mill in southern Russia having been established forty years ago by a man named Hughes, one of the largest steel centers in Ukhralia bears the name Yuzovka—in his honor.—Glas Logistic.

Do Present Work Well.
Some people hunt more important work to do instead of doing the work they find to do. Any work well done opens the way to some task of importance.

Begin Today.
Each one must work out his own salvation in conquering the habit of idle thought, and today is a good time to start the work.—Agnes Greene Foster.

Health and Wealth.
The dollar mark is a sign of wealth, but not health. Health without wealth is better than wealth without health. It is possible for a man to have both.

Popular Kind of Freedom.
"Freedom to do what they ought not do," remarked the man on the car, "is the only kind of liberty that appeals to some fellows."—Toledo Blade.

Optimistic Thought.
Self-adoration is the stock in trade of a fool.

Miss Nora Adair spent Sunday with her parents, J. L. Adair and wife, returning to McAlester this morning. The government thermometer dropped to 30 degrees Sunday night, the lowest for the present season. The snow of today has been a reminder of real winter.

E. T. Turner of Vanoss, has been notified that his son, who was with a machine gun battalion in France, has been missing since Oct. 13. It is hoped that later information may reveal his whereabouts.

P. A. Norris left Sunday afternoon for Kansas City to attend a meeting of the fuel administrators of the states of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas. A representative of the Fuel Administration at Washington will be present. The object of the meeting is to work out a plan for the equitable distribution of natural gas in the mid-continent field. There is a shortage of gas, and it is a question as to who is first entitled to what there is.

ON THE FUNNY SIDE

Cold Comfort.
"Why did she break off the engagement?"
"It was this way. When he was leaving for France, she said, 'If you are wounded, Henry, promise me that you won't fall in love with your nurse.'"
"And of course he swore he would resist the most beautiful maiden who ever graced a hospital?"
"No. He merely said he would do his best."

Stumped.
"Now, Lieutenant Tompkins," said the general, "you have the battalion in quarter column, facing the south—how would you get it into line, in the quickest possible way, facing north-east?"
"Well, sir," said the lieutenant, after a moment's fruitless consideration, "do you know, that's what I've often wondered?"

A Mean Remark.
"We pride ourselves on being a progressive community," said the resident of a dead town.
"In what respect?" asked the curious stranger.
"Our streets are always kept clean."
"But what does it profit a town to have clean streets, if they are not in use?"

Painful Suggestion.
"My life is insured for $50,000," said old Crustiboy, proudly.
"Have you ever discussed" with young Mrs. Crustiboy the possibility of your dying some day?"
"Oh, yes. Quite often."
"Ahem! And while you were discussing that subject did you ever notice a wistful look on her face?"

JUST THAT.

Maude—Mrs. Newcome never gets asked to any bridge parties.
Evelyn—Does she play too well or not well enough.

Wow!
Little grains of powder.
Little dabs of paint.
Make the girls giggle.
Look like what they ain't.

A Dilemma.
Mrs. Mulligan—Do you feel better this morning, Mrs. O'Toole?
Mrs. O'Toole—I do, and then again I don't.

Mrs. Mulligan—That's bad, for it's hurried to know whether to say O'm sorry or glad.—Harper's Bazaar.

Indestructible.
"I presume the vases, plates and articles of furniture broken over the heads of modern picture comedians are made of some soft material to avoid serious injury."
"No doubt. But even so, I believe the average movie comedian's head has the durability of granite."

Closed Up.
"How long did you work at the last place where you were employed?"
"Only a day, sir."
"You didn't stay there very long."
"No, sir. But it really wasn't my fault. I got there a day ahead of the sheriff."

Such a Silliness!
"Ever go fishing with a girl?"
"Once."
"Did she protest against hurting the fish?"
"No. She said she was sure they were perfectly happy, because they were all wagging their tails."

Careless.
"Bridget, did you get the flowers that I am to wear tonight in my hair?"
"Yes, ma'am, but—"
"But what?"
"I've mislaid the hair, mum!"

Passing the Buck.
His Wife—And I suppose, sir, you have no faults whatever.
Her Hub—None, my dear, that the right sort of a wife wouldn't rectify.
